

Middletown Files Complaint Against NJ Council on Local Mandates to Address Public Safety Costs

Earlier this week, Middletown Township officially filed a complaint against the State of New Jersey with the Council on Local Mandates to address how the bail reform statute is forcing the Township to incur $325,391.17 in increased public safety costs this year. This is due to the ongoing auto thefts and home invasions that have been plaguing Middletown and surrounding areas.

This increased cost to municipalities will impact taxpayers during a time when it is critical to scale back spending. "Middletown Township is allocating over $325,000 in expenses to supplement these failed policies, and while you cannot put a price tag on public safety, it should come at the cost of the state," said Mayor Tony Perry.

“The Middletown Township Committee and I hope that other towns will jump onboard to support this complaint to ensure our voices are heard and fix this broken system.”

Local Girl Scouts Meet with Mayor Perry for Educational Discussion about Local Government

Mayor Perry hosted several local Girl Scout troops at Town Hall to learn more about his responsibilities as a municipal leader.

Yesterday, Girl Scout troops from Bayshore, Thompson, and Thorne Middle Schools visited Town Hall to meet with Mayor Tony Perry. The scouts had a diverse set of questions and learned about the history of Middletown and his varying mayoral responsibilities including daily tasks and how to be an effective leader. They also discussed our parks system, the uptick in auto thefts and public safety, as well as mental health and the impact of social media on kids.

Kudos to these awesome young residents for getting involved!

The Middletown Township Public Library will be open on Presidents Day.
